LARGER ARMY.

Fifty Thousand Soldiers to Be Sent.

The President Takes a Hand in War Affairs.

Has Learned People's Wishes as to the Islands.

Recruits Will Rendezvous at San Francisco—Commands to Be Given to Officers Who Have Served and Desire to Serve Again.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The War Department officials preserve the strictest secrecy respecting the number of additional troops to be sent to Gen. Otis, and the plans of the administration for the suppression of the rebellion in the Philippines. The extent and activity of the preparations for recruiting, which are now being made, however, afford substantial confirmation of the report that when the President and Secretary Alger return, they will arrange for the mustering-in of a far greater number of recruits than the ten or twelve thousand which Gen. Corbin now practically admits will be enlisted.

Tonight a high official says it is probable that the whole provisional army of 35,000 men will be taken into service if that number of recruits can be obtained without resort to a general call. With this statement comes the information that it now is the administration's intention to send to Gen. Otis an aggregate of 50,000 troops, which will give him the desired 20,000 for active operations, and leave 30,000 for garrison purposes. The President not only has been in constant communication with the War Department, but has been feeling the pulse of people relieved from administration influence. It is but surprising that he should return with changed views respecting the Philippines case.

Still it is the intention to enlist volunteers through the medium of recruits, and not to issue a general call. As men are started, it is proposed to rendezvous them at San Francisco, there to be thoroughly drilled by regular army officers. So far as possible, the volunteer regiments will be commanded by regular army officers. Subalterns will be selected from the ranks, preference being given those who served in the war in Spain and to returned volunteer officers who have served in the Philippines and who desire to be re-commissioned. All the machinery of the War Department will be used to get these volunteers ready to leave San Francisco by the middle of August, when transports will be massed there to take troops to Manila.

[MILITARY.]

MORE MEN FOR OTIS.

PRESIDENT WILL AUTHORIZE THE ENLISTMENT OF SOLDIERS.

Ten Complete Regiments May Be Formed, But State Organizations Will Not Be Accepted, Although Many Applications are on File.

[A. F. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, June 23.—A special to the Herald from Washington says that President McKinley will authorize the enlistment of additional men for the Philippines when he returns to Washington. This is the understanding of well-informed War Department officials.

The administration has at last come to recognize the necessity of reinforcing Gen. Otis. It is apparent that some department officials are figuring on the advisability of enlisting sufficient men to form ten complete regiments.

Acting Secretary of War McKeljohn said if the President authorized additional men, the number would be determined after a consultation with Gen. Otis. It would not be surprising were the department to hear from Gen. Otis before the return of the President, in order that the latter may be supplied with the necessary information in order to take immediate action.

"In any event," said Mr. McKeljohn, "there is little probability of a formal call for volunteers. State organizations will not be accepted, although there are many applications on file. The President, I think, authorized the department to direct its recruiting officers to make enlistment, and I am confident that men can be obtained in such numbers as to form a complete organization and be ready for service with Gen. Otis during the fall months."

Should the President authorize the formation of ten regiments, recruiting officers will have to obtain 15,700 men to fill them. At least 4,000 men will be required for the three volunteer organizations, which Gen. Otis has authority to organize, making about 20,000 of the 35,000 men of the provisional army, the enlistment of which is authorized by law.

A PECULIAR INTERVIEW.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The statement which is made positively in some quarters that the President is about to issue a call for 10,000 volunteers has two sides. A Cabinet member was asked about the matter today, and he said: "I do not believe the President will issue a call right away. He appreciates the fact that people desire troops called out and the rebellion ended quickly, but there is another side. Some time ago Gen. Otis was asked how many troops he needed. He answered 30,000 would be plenty. He has that number. Now, what has happened to change the situation there since Otis made that estimate? Nothing. The President has placed implicit faith in Otis. If Otis has blundered and underestimated by many thousands the force he needed, there is nothing left for the President to do but to disregard Otis's estimate, relieve him from command and call for troops. I do not believe the President is prepared to do that."

CENTENNIAL'S ACCIDENT.
War Department Receives No Notice of Transport's Grounding.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The War Department has received no official dispatches relative to the grounding of the transport Centennial on the north end of Luzon, and the loss of 100 tons of supplies, which were thrown overboard to lighten the ship. According to the records the Centennial carried 1800 tons of supplies, and it is believed that were all the property of the Submarine Cable Department.

The commissary officer at Manila has been queried as to whether it is desirable to immediately replace the supplies lost. The Centennial was a chartered ship, and not one of the regular government transport fleet.

ABRAM GOULD DEAD.

Brother of Jay Passes Away at Salem, N. Y.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—George P. Massengale of this city has received a telegram from Salem, N. Y., announcing the death there, last night, of Abram Gould, a brother of Jay Gould, who for many years was purchasing agent for the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain Railroad companies. He leaves one son, Fred, 21 years old.

Ever since the death of his wife, Mr. Gould has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Massengale in this city. His health has been very poor for several months, and recently, in company with his son, Mr. Gould went East for a rest. Fred was present at the death-bed of his father.

Mr. Gould was 56 years old. He was quiet, a bachelor, and never mentioned his relationship with Jay Gould. The deceased had many friends here, especially among railroad men.

Abram Gould was born at Roxbury, N. Y., March 8, 1842. He married Miss Sophie Kerner of Salem, N. Y., in 1861. In early life Mr. Gould passed through the Fall River line, and in 1873 he became purchasing agent of the Pacific Mail line of steamers. For eight years—beginning in 1876—Gould was manager of the coal departments of that line in Salt Lake City. Since then he has been connected with the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain roads in this city.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CLEVELAND (O.) June 23.—The reaction by the street-railway strikers' mass meeting last night of the terms of settlement unanimously approved by the committee has put a new aspect on the situation. The city authorities are now openly preparing for trouble, and the Board of Control is considering means of protecting the company's property and preserving order. President Everett says that the company will run its cars and have no more dealings with the strikers. Police Director Barrett said: "We are not going to wait for anything more to happen, but prepare ourselves to meet any emergency. Whether or not it will be found necessary to call for militia, other than what the city contains, I cannot say. We cannot depend on the police force we have. Every possible thing will be done to prevent the recurrence of such affairs as have taken place frequently on the streets of Cleveland since the strike began."

At a stormy meeting of the Peace Committee of the City Council today, Reynolds and Carpenter, counsel for strikers, were bitterly denounced for not urging the men to accept terms agreed upon yesterday. President Everett of the railway company announced at noon that he would give the men until 5 p.m. to accept the conditions laid down yesterday, namely, the reinstatement of 80 per cent. of the strikers and the placing of the rest on the waiting list.

Mayor Farley has determined that the time has come when decisive action must be taken. He will, it is announced, permit no more rioting, even if all the available troops in the State are necessary to prevent it. The Mayor and Chief Barrett have agreed on a plan of action, and no time will be lost in raising a sufficient force to prevent further outbreaks.

BEGINNING TO WEAKEN.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CLEVELAND, June 23.—It is stated

tonight that the street-railway strike is in a fair way of settlement. The strikers held another meeting tonight and issued an ultimatum, which is a practical acceptance of the company's terms. A conference of the opposing forces will be held tomorrow morning.

CHICAGO STRIKE SPREADING.

Armour & Co.'s Packing House Obligated to Close.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, June 23.—Nearly three hundred men joined the ranks of the stockyard strikers today, making the force that is now out 600, and the strike fever is apparently on the increase. The strikers are demanding an increase in wages of 25 cents a day.

A general strike of the 30,000 packing-house employees is predicted. Armour's people were compelled to close their pork-packing house today. The closing down of Armour & Co.'s packing-house left 8000 hogs in the yards tonight, and caused considerable of a flurry in the market during the afternoon.

MORE MINERS IMPORTED.

Missouri Miners Taken Into Idaho to Fill Strikers' Places.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WALLACE (Idaho), June 23.—A special train, conveying 111 Missourians from Joplin, reached the Standard mine last night. Besides them, about twenty came on regular trains, showing about thirty deserters out of 199 who started. Everything was orderly when they reached the mine, and no demonstration occurred.

"The defense today moved to quash indictments on the ground that J. H. Forney had no right to be present while the witnesses were being examined by the grand jury. This was a victory for the defense. The objection to Forney was that he was not a resident of the county and that he received a reward other than that allowed by the statutes."

STATE SCORING POINTS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WALLACE, June 23.—Attorneys spent three hours this afternoon arguing motions offered by the defense to set aside and to quash the indictments. The matter was continued until morning, and the court overruled the motion to set aside. This was a victory for the State in every point decided today. The defense will file demurrers tomorrow.

HIS DIE CAST.

Secretary Alger is Out for Senator.

He Admits it and Announces His Platform.

Has Formed a Combine With Gov. Pingree.

Michigan's Executive Not Friendly to the National Administration. The Latter May Favor Senator McMillan—Louisville Convention.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Private information from Detroit today shows conclusively that Secretary Alger will soon leave the Cabinet to enter the political race for the Michigan Senatorship to succeed Senator McMillan. A couple of weeks ago Alger went to Michigan to try to get Gov. Pingree to support him for Senator, and today comes the announcement that he has succeeded, and that Pingree announces that he will support Alger. Alger must now quit the Cabinet.

Senator McMillan, whom he is now opposing, is a strong administration man. Pingree, who will support Alger, is not friendly with the administration; in fact, there was an open breach. So Alger must quit Washington. Then the question will come whether the administration will fight Alger and support McMillan in the Michigan fight. It will be an embarrassing situation all around.

PINGREE COMES OUT.

Admits That He and Alger Have Formed a Combination.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

DETROIT (Mich.), June 23.—Gov. Pingree gave out a public statement today to the effect that he had combined with Secretary Alger in the interests of Alger's Senatorial candidacy. Gen. Alger will not withdraw under any circumstances, nor will he spend any money in the campaign. The platform of their campaign will include opposition to trusts, and a declaration in favor of Senatorial elections by a popular vote. The alliance was made at a conference held last night, at which several of the Pingree State leaders, the general and the Governor were present. Gov. Pingree said: "I have avoided committing myself heretofore, because I wanted an opportunity to talk with the general first. But all along Gen. Alger has been my personal choice for Senator. I wired him at Potoski, asking him if I could see him in Detroit, on his way back to Washington. In reply, he arranged to meet me last night, and of course I can speak for my friends, but those I have talked with are Alger men beyond all question. They cannot support Senator McMillan. They certainly cannot be classed as friends of mine if they do. They cannot forget eight years of political history in a day, nor can they live with the representatives of 'judicious combinations' and 'unequal taxation and pretend, at the same time, to be friends of equal and just taxation and foes to trusts."

"At our meeting last night, Gen. Alger told us frankly the history of his relations with Senator McMillan, in the matter of the Senatorship. He (McMillan) dealt with Gen. Alger the same as he has treated everyone who questions his ownership of the Republican party. Gen. Alger is in the race to stay to the end, and you can say, in the strongest English you can write, I said with him heartily, and I propose to do all I personally and with my friends, can to aid his candidacy."

"As Gen. Alger put it to me, he will be a candidate if he has election, but I shall enter the contest with all possible strength."

ANOTHER INTERVIEW.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] CHICAGO, June 23.—Gen. Russell A. Alger, Secretary of War, announced today that he is in the Michigan Senatorial fight with the direct vote and election of the people on his banners. "It is perhaps a little early to say that trust and trust legislation are to be again the factors in the coming election," said Alger. "Other greater consequences may arise, but, however, it is certain that the widespread spirit of consolidation of financial interests is in it, and must be contained against. I am a foe to those great amalgamations, and believe in the election of Senators by direct vote of the people, and as Gov. Pinckney states, on those planks I will stand."

"The concentration of wealth in trusts is detrimental to the interests of the people. It is equally as detrimental to business, and, greater than all, eliminates the middle man and stifles competition. With a certain commodity, trust and monopoly are a cotyledon, and men, they are not compelled to seek customers. The dealer must get the trust, take what he can get, and without a monopoly the dealer is asked."

"Everywhere manufacturers are agreeing to increase their prices for their articles. It is equally as true that the price of raw materials is not stable in articles in which iron and steel are used. The results of monopoly are so apparent and have been so widely discussed that further comment is not necessary. I am not an extremist, but the growing tendency to absorb small industries into one company, that others may be frozen out and a monopoly secured, is a matter for consideration by legislators on behalf of the people, who are vitally interested."

"The present system of electing Senators through the agency of legislators is one that always has its critics, and I believe the criticism is just. The direct vote is the better method, I think, and while the attainment of this will doubtless take years, it is worth laboring for. A Senatorial fight in a State Legislature generally sends to Congress a man who is not the representative of a machine, but of the people."

"The contest in Michigan for the nomination will be of standing in the Mr. McMillan, aided, I believe, by Burrows, will try for renomination. Gov. Pinckney has shown himself very friendly to me, and I believe in the beginning of the war. It is now too early to make calculations on the strength of the forces which will contend, but there will be a Republican and a Democratic candidate in the field—nothing to disrupt the party."

Besides talking of his Senatorial candidacy, Gen. Alger discussed the Philippine situation, and stated that on his return to Washington he would recommend to the President an increase of the army under General Otis's command. Asked whether there was any intention on the part of the administration to send Gen. Miles to Manila, he replied:

"Not that I know of. All I know about it is what I have read in the papers. The matter is being discussed, so far as I am aware, Gen. Otis is doing good work. He is conservative, level-headed and aggressive. This conduct of the war in the Philippines has been satisfactory. But there is no doubt he needs more men. We intend to give them to him. I cannot say how many, but I will make recommendations to him."

"I am not prepared to say there will be a call for volunteers, but I do not apprehend any new recruits will be sent before October 1, or in that time when the rainy season is over."

SILVER THEIR SLOGAN.

Kentucky Democrats Indorse Bryan and Silver.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.), June 23.—The third day of the Democratic State Convention is still working on the temporary organization. The Committee on Credentials labored with the 357 contested seats, which it had to dispose of, until long into the night. The list of its unfinished work, and the country districts were disposed of, but the seventy seats of Jefferson county, in which the Louisville delegates are located, were not taken up. Last night's committee on the subject of majority and minority reports from several of the most important counties.

The majority of the Committee on Resolutions has drawn up a platform indorsing William J. Bryan for the Presidential nomination, and S. C. Blackburn for United States Senator, and making free silver again the prominent issue; also reaffirming the Chicago platform in its entirety. The platform contains a strong anti-trust plank. The differences of opinion, in the committee, arose over an indorsement of the Goebel-Stone combination, the majority favoring it.

In regard to the policy to be pursued in dealing with the new possessions, the majority is in favor of the annexation of Cuba is sustained, but the administration is condemning the campaign in the Philippines.

The State administration is condemned for alleged corrupt methods and inefficient management. The majority recommended are legislation against the railroads, especially discriminations in rates, and against any combination to secure a monopoly of school books.

The fight between the three candidates for the nomination of Governor was being warmly waged, with the advantage with the Goebel-Stone combination.

The convention was called to order at 9:30 o'clock, and after the adoption of the resolutions in memory of the late Congressman R. P. Bland, it took a recess until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, to await the report of the Committee on Credentials.

An important phase of the business of the Credentials Committee, which was at one time threatened to divide the votes between Stone and Goebel.

It was adjourned on the fourth day of its sessions tomorrow without having accomplished anything more than temporary organization. The report of the Committee on Credentials was reached in the order of business tonight, but its consideration was prevented by the disturbing influence of persons who were admitted to the floor of the convention, though not entitled to seats.

COLONIAL AFFAIRS.

[WASHINGTON, June 23.]

NEW CABINET OFFICE DEEMED NECESSARY.

Conditions confronting the United States as a result of the War With Spain Cause the Department.

Robert R. Porter is Looked Upon as the Probable Head of the Foreign Relations Department.

Army Reports Favor Canteen System. Fire Delays Work on the Albany. League Island Drydock.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] NEW YORK, June 23.—A special to the Herald from Washington says that a new executive branch of the government, with the title of "Department of Colonial Affairs and Foreign Commerce," or something similar to it, is being formed by the administration absolutely necessary to meet new conditions which confront the United States as a result of the war with Spain. The word "colonial" is repugnant to political reasons to some of the members of the Cabinet, because it smacks of imperialism, and it is probable that some other title will be adopted. The meaning, however, will be the same.

Preliminary recommendations to Congress on this subject, data are now being completed concerning the control of the colonies by foreign powers, and the extension of our commerce to the colonies. The members of the Cabinet and subordinate officials of the administration are giving thought and time to the details of the proposed department.

American consuls on duty in colonies belonging to foreign powers, and especially those of Great Britain, are being asked to submit a list of questions now preparing for submission to them. Robert R. Porter, who is looked upon as the probable head of the new department, will be consulted in regard to the plans of extending foreign commerce, which is to become a feature of the new department.

President McKinley's policy in regard to the future form of government for the Philippines and Cuba, is still undecided. The members of the Cabinet and subordinate officials of the administration are giving thought and time to the details of the proposed department.

At present there is no central head for the consideration of the multifarious questions constantly arising in connection with Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. The War Department has control of these matters now, but there are many questions of a financial, judicial, commercial and diplomatic nature which our army officers are not competent to deal with and ought not to be required to deal with. It is now the duty of the President to shift from one department to another, to escape responsibility of settling intricate questions.

A territorial form of government for Porto Rico and Hawaii has already been agreed upon and there is little doubt that the same will be passed in this direction. The President told a friend the other day that he favored a government for Porto Rico and Hawaii which would be a civil government, and that if it were in his power to appoint a civil Governor for Porto Rico at once, without waiting for legislation by Congress.

"As to Cuba, it will be impossible to have any other form of government than the present military one, until the people of the island have taken steps for the formation of a civil government which the United States can recognize. From this point of view, we are beginning to doubt if affairs will so shape themselves in Cuba as to enable the United States to pass measures in this direction. The President told a friend the other day that he favored a government for Porto Rico and Hawaii which would be a civil government, and that if it were in his power to appoint a civil Governor for Porto Rico at once, without waiting for legislation by Congress."

"It has been held that the President has no legislative authority to keep military forces in Cuba after the treaty of peace was ratified, but the forces have been held there, and the President is now being asked to keep them there. The President told a friend the other day that he favored a government for Porto Rico and Hawaii which would be a civil government, and that if it were in his power to appoint a civil Governor for Porto Rico at once, without waiting for legislation by Congress."

"The State administration is condemned for alleged corrupt methods and inefficient management. The majority recommended are legislation against the railroads, especially discriminations in rates, and against any combination to secure a monopoly of school books."

The fight between the three candidates for the nomination of Governor was being warmly waged, with the advantage with the Goebel-Stone combination.

The convention was called to order at 9:30 o'clock, and after the adoption of the resolutions in memory of the late Congressman R. P. Bland, it took a recess until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, to await the report of the Committee on Credentials.

CANTEEN SYSTEM MAINTAINED. Acting Secretary of War Says There Will Be No Change. [ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Acting Secretary of War said today that, so far as the department is concerned, the question of the maintenance of canteens at United States army posts is settled in favor of maintaining the present system.

Reports from officers in all branches of the service showed that from every standpoint the army canteen, as now operated, is infinitely better for the interests of the soldier than the old system of post traders and low groggeries on the outskirts of the posts. The regulations under which the canteens are already operating, and there will be no need for further action by the department.

ALBANY'S COMPLETION DELAYED. Fire Hinders English Firm's Work on the Cruiser. [ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Navy Department has received a letter from the Armstrong Shipbuilding Company of England, containing the information that the recent fire in their ordnance plant at Newcastle would somewhat delay the completion of the cruiser Albany, which this country purchased from Brazil just prior to the outbreak of the Spanish-American war.

The fire destroyed about $10,000 worth of ordnance and electrical apparatus, some of which was designed for use in outfitting the Albany. The letter did not contain specific information as to the length of the delay, and further information upon this point is expected shortly.

The Albany was to have been completed and ready to sail on October 1.

VENEZUELA'S NEW TARIFF. Average Increase of Two Per Cent. Is Authorized. [ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] WASHINGTON, June 23.—Loomis writes the State Department from Caracas as follows, concerning the new tariff:

"The Venezuelan Congress, which adjourned Saturday last, enacted a new tariff law, but owing to the numerous amendments made to the original bill, it is impossible to get a corrected copy for transmission by this mail. It can be said, however, that there will be an average increase of 2 per cent. on existing duties, a very few articles, four among them, being excepted. In addition to the advance in duties made by the Congress, a new tariff has been fixed for putting the date into effect."

England is Looked to Bring Matters to an Issue. The Orange People are Urged to Transvaal People to Help the Shropshire Regiment in Arms.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] LONDON, June 23.—(By Atlantic Cable.) A dispatch from Cape Town to the Outlook says that the tension is extreme. Business is at a standstill, and the general feeling is that England must promptly bring matters to an issue. The league will have no difficulty in preventing meetings, supporting Sir Alfred Milner's attitude, and desire being to refrain from embarrassing the imperial authorities.

The Orange government is urging the Transvaal to make further concessions. Many people consider that Sir Alfred Milner's franchise proposals are useless, without the granting of twelve seats in the mining centers, and the right to speak English in the Volksraad. Otherwise it will be impossible to select representative men. Falling in these concessions, the Johannesburgers say they prefer a treaty, providing security and judicial and educational reforms.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, in the House of Commons today, in answering a question, denied the government was reinforcing the British troops in South Africa to a total of 40,000 men.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] BLOEMFONTEIN, June 23.—The Volksraad of the Orange Free State has voted $2870 for the increase of artillery, tents and other military supplies. Trade with Capetown and Johannesburg is at a comparative standstill.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SEATTLE (Wash.), June 23.—The second big lot of returning Klondikers since navigation opened arrived this afternoon on the steamer Humboldt. There were about 150 of them, and a few of them brought considerable dust. Others were reported to have drafts for large amounts while others came home without riches.

No accurate estimate of the amount of gold dust can be made, for the reason that the figures given by the different passengers vary widely, ranging all the way from $250,000 to $500,000. Still more diverging are the conjectures as to the amount of drafts. Including the drafts and dust, the estimates range from $1,000,000 to $1,250,000. Pursuer claims that he had in his custody $250,000 in dust, and estimates that there was about $300,000 more in the different staterooms not turned over to him.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon $150,000 worth of dust was deposited in the United States assay office. A $50,000 lot was billed at an express office for shipment to Philadelphia.

H. J. Saunders of the Klondike, who has the reputation of being the two richest men on board. They were credited with having between them about $500,000. Mr. Winter of Seattle had a $12,000 sack. W. H. Armstrong and his party had about 150 pounds of dust. Mr. Harrell of Philadelphia was credited with $40,000. Other large holders were G. F. Williams, August Peterson, Dr. J. H. Hill, Palmer Hill, and others.

The Albany was to have been completed and ready to sail on October 1.

TARIFF FOR FARMERS.

NEW JERSEY MAN ADVOCATES IT BEFORE COMMISSIONERS.

Country Produce Prices Falling and Wages Going Up—Colorado's Governor Will Attend Anti-Trust Conference—Ohio Supreme Court Fixes Dates for Filing Standard Oil Case Briefs.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] WASHINGTON, June 23.—Richard Coles, a resident of Salem county, N. J., was before the Industrial Commission today. He said the farmers of New Jersey had no special complaint, although there was a general feeling that conditions might be improved. Prices for their products were generally lower, while wages for farm hands were higher than formerly.

Within the past twenty-five years farms in his section had depreciated in value about 50 per cent. The depreciation in the price of products are not so great. He was inclined to attribute the lower prices to competition from the West and South.

He advocated a tariff on farm products, putting them on the same basis as the manufacturers. This policy would result in saving to the United States about $300,000 or $400,000 now sent abroad for articles of an agricultural nature.

GOV. THOMAS CONCURS. And Will Endeavor to Attend the Anti-Trust Conference. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] DENVER, June 23.—Gov. Thomas today sent the following letter to Gov. Spaulding of Colorado:

"I have your communication of the 5th inst., suggesting the expediency of a conference of the Governors and Attorneys-General of the United States to consider the effect of the formation of the trusts in the country and agree, if possible, on some sort of legislation to neutralize the evils resulting from their formation, and the manner in which they conduct their business affairs. I quite agree with you that the exigency demands, if possible, some concerted action, and the character of my engagements will permit, I will endeavor to attend your conference."

STANDARD OIL CASES. Supreme Court Fixes Dates for Filing of Briefs. [ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] COLUMBUS (O.), June 23.—The Supreme Court today passed on the motion of Atty.-Gen. Monnett in which an early hearing was asked for the Standard Oil Company. At the time Attorney Neal resisted the motion, insisting that the contempt cases be heard first.

The court, in passing on the matter, ignored the contempt cases, and gave the State until July 10 to file its brief in the main case, the Standard Oil Company to have until October 1 to make its reply, and the State to make its reply to this by October 15. The court will then take up the matter and fix a date for the hearing of the main case.

THE SMELTER MEN. Thinking About Starting a Plant of Their Own. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] DENVER, June 23.—The situation, so far as the relations between the smelters and their employees is concerned, seems to be unchanged. No movement has been made by either side toward a settlement, so far as can be learned. The Smelter Men's Union held its regular weekly meeting today. The meeting was secret, but it is rumored that the principal matter under discussion was the proposition to establish an independent smelter on a cooperative basis. It has been suggested that a donation of $1 per capita from the American Federation of Labor and the Western Federation of Miners would be ample to erect and operate a very large plant. It is stated on good authority that such a matter has been discussed.

Window-glass Prices Advanced. PITTSBURGH, June 23.—The window-glass combine, known as the American Glass Company, has again advanced the prices of window-glass. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] ROSLAND (B. C.), June 23.—About 11 o'clock this morning a terrible explosion took place in the War Eagle mine, the scene of the fatality of three men and two injured on the morning; another is probably fatally injured, and a fifth is very seriously hurt.

Five men were working in the 625-foot level with machine drills, when one of the drills struck a "missed hole," where the shot failed to go off last night. A frightful explosion took place and Charles Post and Charles Lee were killed, while Mike Griffin, a married man, died on the way to the hospital.

Men from all parts of the mine rushed to the help of their comrades, and the latter were carried out of the mine quickly; the injured men being removed to the hospital.

Dan Green is lying at the hospital with but faint hopes for his recovery. Charles Cousin has received severe injuries; his right arm being torn off, but the surgeons have hopes of his recovery.

The mine is closed down this afternoon, and will probably remain so until after the funeral.

CHARGES AGAINST McNAUGHTON.

San Jose's Normal School Principal in Hot Water.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, June 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Alumni of the State Normal School at San Jose, Cal., have appointed a committee, Attorney John G. Jury and A. H. Luzzallo, to investigate the allegations of incompetency and immorality against Prof. James McNaughton of the Arizona Normal School at Tempe, Ariz., recently elected principal of the San Jose school. The charges are based on the alleged conduct of McNaughton while superintendent of schools at Council Bluffs, Iowa, in 1890. At a meeting of the Council Bluffs school board, August 30, 1890, a resolution calling for the resignation of McNaughton was adopted. In the September following, the resolution that McNaughton be discharged was lost. The superintendent then presented his resignation, and it was accepted promptly.

Just a month prior to this acceptance a petition was filed before the board demanding McNaughton's head. It was signed by citizens well known in the community. The first clause of the petition sets up that James McNaughton was deficient in scholarship. The second clause averred that McNaughton "is unfit for the office of superintendent of public schools, in that he is immoral, insolent, ungentlemanly and overbearing in his behavior; that he associates with notorious characters, and induces them to frequent the public-school buildings during school hours, etc."

Clause three charges that he spent part of his time in furtherance of his private business, and that he neglected important school duties. Clause four charges that McNaughton practiced usury by lending money at exorbitant rates to bad characters, and that the chattel mortgages were made out in the name of his mother-in-law. Specifications are given. The petitioners said they stood ready to prove these charges.

A special from Tempe says that McNaughton denies the charges, and will fight the matter before the board of trustees.

FIGHT OVER HARVESTERS.

Farmers Enjoyed as the Result of a Patent-right Decision.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SUISUN, June 23.—In the case of the Holt Brothers' Manufacturing Company of Stockton against Haines-Houser for infringement of patent in manufacturing harvesters, the Commissioner of Patents has decided in favor of the former.

Yesterday a deputy United States Marshal served papers on Sullivan et al. of Montezuma Hills, who are sued for $1500 damages, defendants having recently purchased a Haines-Houser combined harvester, and have the same ready for operation. The suit is regarded as a test case, and the result will be watched with interest. There being many Haines-Houser machines recently purchased, it is stated that the last-named company has promised to protect purchasers, and have the same ready for operation. Reports from Glenn and Yolo counties state that injunctions have been served upon farmers to restrain them from using Haines-Houser harvesters.

The general opinion is that the matter should be settled, it being believed that rival manufacturers stopping the use of harvesters will entail hardships upon the farmers at this particular time. Holt Brothers have sent communications to farmers, informing them to desist from using the Haines-Houser harvesters, and in case of non-compliance civil suits are threatened.

VANDERLIP'S MISSIONS.

Will Inspect San Francisco Mint and Postoffice Stone Contract.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—P. A. Vanderlip, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, arrived in this city today. He comes on two missions, one to inspect the local mint and the other to form one of the board of examiners who will investigate the letting of the stone contract for the new postoffice in this city. Eastern and western contractors have made bids for the stone work, and a great effort is being made to have the new postoffice building constructed of native stone, and is therefore unfit for such a building. It is to determine this and other questions that a board of examiners has been appointed. Vanderlip will inaugurate a new system at the mint, tending to decrease expenses and to decrease charges to patrons. It is said that prices in the local mint are 15 some cases 10 per cent. higher than in the other mints in this country.

LIEUT. LANSDALE'S FUNERAL.

Military Honor for a Victim of the Samoan Trouble.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The funeral of Lieut. Philip Van Horn Lansdale, who was killed in Samoa by the natives, during the battle between the combined forces of Americans and British and the followers of Mataafa, took place today from St. Luke's Episcopal Church. Bishop Moreland delivered the sermon.

The church was crowded with sympathizing friends of the deceased, and the navy and army were largely represented. The body of the brave lieutenant was removed from the cruiser Philadelphia, under a naval escort, similar to that which attended the body of Ensign Monaghan yesterday. American and British flags were displayed at halfmast in many places, particularly along the waterfront. The body was interred at Cypress Lawn Cemetery, the naval officers, band and men attending.

REDWOOD LUMBER TRUST.

Chicago Capital Said to Be Backing a Proposition.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The Evening Post says that Chicago capitalists are backing a proposition looking to the formation of a trust in redwood lumber on this coast. This firm of Gray & Mitchell, the paper says, is working to get the principal redwood lumbermen into a combine which will control the supply and the prices to be paid for redwood lumber. All the lumber companies have been asked to submit an appraisal of their holdings.

Heretofore overproduction has resulted in year-out-of-the-market. It is to prevent this overproduction, more than anything else, that the combine will be formed.

Corporation Beach Property-owners Fighting Street Assessments.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN DIEGO, June 23.—John D. Speckels was made defendant in eight separate actions begun this morning by attorneys representing property-owners on Coronado Beach.

A year ago the property of these plaintiffs was alleged to have been sold to Speckels for delinquency on street-paving assessments. A charge of from $150 to $250 for each lot was made to pay bonds bought by Speckels for this improvement, and which the plaintiffs allege were issued under the "freeman act," but without due process of law, and are illegal and void.

About $15,000 is represented in the contested claims, and the parties suing are George Kroenert, J. Goldtree, First National Bank, Lizzie Kroenert, F. J. Barnes, M. Cushing and M. A. Ross. It is believed here that the bonds will be defeated.

PASSENGERS' NARROW ESCAPE.

Open Switch at Winnemucca, Nev., Causes a Collision.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WINNEMUCCA (Nev.), June 23.—What might have been a fatal accident occurred in the railroad yards at this place today. At the west end of the yard is located a switch, which opens from the main line to a side track. This switch was turned this morning, and several heavily-loaded cars of coal were standing on the side track.

When a passenger train No. 1, east-bound, entered the yards at 3 o'clock this morning, it left the main track and crashed into the heavy coal cars. The engineer and fireman jumped just in time to save their lives. The engine was somewhat damaged, as were the freight cars. Other than a good shaking up, the passengers of No. 1 were not injured. Superintendent J. S. Noble's private car, "Buena Ventura," was attached to the train.

KILLED A MEXICAN.

And for That an American Woman Goes to a Dungeon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Two letters received from Mrs. Evelyn Collier, who is now in jail at Hermosillo, Mex., tell the story of her arrest, trial and sentence to four years' imprisonment for shooting and killing a Mexican who forced himself into her home, when she was alone, and attempted to assault her.

She is an American woman who lived with her brother, William Frost, at Ures, Sonora, March 31, of this year, while her brother was absent, a Mexican broke in the door. A scuffle over the possession of a pistol then ensued, both trying to get the weapon. Mrs. Collier pushed the man outside the door, when the pistol was discharged. He fell dead, but she locked and barred the door, without ascertaining the fact. For this she was sentenced to four years in prison.

Frost secured the transfer of his sister from the jail at Ures to the jail at Hermosillo, and at the same time took an appeal to the Supreme Court. She claims that her condition in jail is deplorable. The attention of Senator

Perkins has been directed to the case of Mrs. Collier, and he promises to make the matter up with Secretary Hay, to the end that an investigation be made and the release of the prisoner be made if the statements made by her are verified.

Chief of Police Kiple of Chicago an Innocent.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, June 23.—The Baxter Investigating Committee adjourned today subject to the call of the chairman, after hearing evidence on gambling in Chicago, and listening to testimony regarding charges of alleged irregularities in the City Attorney's office. The committee will probably not meet again until fall.

Chief of Police Kiple testified that there were no gambling-houses in Chicago. "In nearly every prominent club in Chicago there is more or less gambling," he said, "but those clubs operate under State charters, and I would hesitate a long time before backing a blue wagon up to their doors and arresting the club members."

"What about the games in the back rooms of cigar stores?" he was asked. "Oh, I consider them merely private social clubs," replied the Chief. Taking up the City Attorney's office, the committee heard Miss Kate Piper. She testified that Mrs. H. A. Russell, a former boarding-house proprietor of hers, had recovered $1200 from the city on what Miss Piper claimed was a "fake" damage suit, and in which she had refused to testify when called to by Mrs. Russell. The records of the City Attorney's office, however, it was asserted, showed that judgment had been rendered for $3200.

HOW SHE PROVED IT.

Experiments on Coffee Drinking.

"The following is the way coffee has affected me: About three years ago I noticed nervous symptoms which had annoyed me for a long while were becoming more positive and frequent—palpitation of the heart, feeling of fright, loss of memory (sometimes when speaking on the platform), mental depression and irritability, languor, faintness and a sick headache of daily occurrence.

"My habits were regular, and I was not organically diseased. What could cause these very unpleasant symptoms of approaching disease which were becoming worse and worse, and threatened to interfere with my life work?

"Noticing that I was really good for nothing in the morning until I had my cup of coffee, I began to wonder if that stimulant and narcotic could possibly be what was affecting me. I experimented for some months, alternately using and abstaining, and proved conclusively that all my troubles lay in the morning cup of coffee.

"I therefore let it off, but there was a great sense of loss in the absence of the hot breakfast drink. About the time I tried Postum Food Coffee, from curiosity. At first it did not satisfy my coffee taste, but I kept experimenting, and finally discovered that when I made it right, according to the directions, it was a rich, satisfying beverage, with most invigorating qualities which seemed to tone up the whole system. I have been using it now for eighteen months. I sleep perfectly, eat heartily, possess no nerves, have lost every unpleasant symptom previously described, gained flesh and color, and am in a better state mentally than in years before.

"I wish every one could know of Postum Food Coffee, and the advantages of using it, and leaving off the coffee drug, which I am persuaded is an unsatisfactory cause of many cases of sickness." C. E. Seberry, 133 Evergreen avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

COLONEL STOTSENBERG.

HIS OLD ORDERLY FAITHFUL IN LIFE AND DEATH.

The First Nebraska's Brave Commander—None Doubted His Courage—He Lost His Life While Helping an Ambushed Command—The Old Orderly's Story.

[W. D. B. Dodson in Portland Oregonian:] I was out at Malolos the other day when the dead body of Col. Stotsenberg, of the First Nebraska, and his acting adjutant, Lieut. Sisson, were brought in. They were laid out on a rough, but sturdy bench by the door. The slightly-built colonel and the splendid form of his lieutenant, each with a tiny red spot over the heart, were eyed by hundreds of passing soldiers. Some of them muttered, "Damn the niggers; let us have a whack at them," while others looked serious. One Nebraska soldier would come up, take a look, and turn away with a tear on his cheek and a fierce look in the eye. Another would gaze at his dead leader unaffected and criticize him for rashness in leading men where they must die.

When the crowd had thinned to scattering spectators there was an old man with bent shoulders, weather-beaten, scarred face, who would move near the dead colonel and stand there in reverent grief. If he suspected his actions were noticed he quickly turned away. Becoming interested I took a position where I could see his face, and was surprised to see the tears trickling from between his eyelids and down his face, those on the right side coursing over a great, ugly scar the length of his cheek. When the old man discovered that he had been watched, he brushed the water from his eyes, and calmly gazing on the dead colonel, said:

"I wish I was him. I wish I laid there, with all you young fellows looking at me. I wouldn't care if you all come and looked at my body, if I could take his place. He's too young. 'Twouldn't make any difference 'bout me."

He then told his story. For ten years he had been orderly for the young army officer, lived right by his side, in his family, and followed him wherever he went. That morning he was twenty feet behind the brave colonel, hobbling along as fast as his old, unsteady legs would carry him, when he saw Stotsenberg fall. Some of the soldiers saw it, too, but before they could reach their leader, old Chris Gilson had fallen on his knees by his side, crying like a child. It was too plain that death was there. The old man knelt and sobbed until the dead colonel was borne to the rear, and then followed the sad procession with a look of deepest despair on his face. He remained by the body until it was taken to Manila, and prepared for shipment. It was difficult to say whether the heartbroken wife or faithful old soldier suffered most. Gilson is the chief character of the Eighth Army Corps. He is a soldier by profession and for life, which alone is not singular, for there are others of the same kind to be found in the troops here, but the range of his experiences and the pertinacity with which he follows danger give him distinction. He has been in Portland, as well as most other cities of the United States. He was a soldier at Vancouver in '52, and was there as the Cayuse campaign, so familiar to all Oregonians. He went east in '62, fighting the war along the Mississippi and later in the army of the Potomac. He was in Pea Ridge and Corinth, and Fair Oaks, and took part in a cavalry charge that nearly cost him his life. The great scar on his cheek is the mark of a rebel blade received in the fight. In the same way his right hand was nearly severed and two ribs were broken, ugly evidence of which still exists. He was in every Indian war of the west, and the civil war that he could get in, closing this work in the campaign against Geronimo under Gen. Leonard, and in the First Division, operating against Aguinaldo. He went with an exploring party all through Alaska in the early days, adding to the government surveys and mapping work. For the last ten years prior to the Spanish war he was the devoted orderly of Gen. Stotsenberg, going with him to Lincoln, Neb., where the lieutenant had charge of military instruction, and was later promoted to a captaincy. When the captain was made a major in the First Nebraska and started to the Philippines, Gilson found a new opening to satisfy the unquenched spirit of adventure that had baffled old age and decrepitude. He is the favorite of the regiment. Through his long career he has been noted as an expert packer. Wherever the operations of the regiment required packing, the old veteran was always on hand with valuable help and advice. He has never grown timid. Bullets never flew any too thick for the old, white-haired orderly to deliver any message his commander required. When Maj. Stotsenberg was promoted colonel, over Lieut. Col. Colton, the work of Gilson was enlarged despite every effort to keep him out of battle. He was returning from delivering a message for the colonel, coolly walking down the line that was swept by a heavy fire from both flanks and the front, when the fatal bullet struck his commander.

Col. Stotsenberg had taken his wife to the city the night previous, anticipating a movement of Gen. MacArthur's division soon. It was not intended that the Nebraska boys should engage the following day, so he was in no hurry to return. He arrived at Malolos on the 10 o'clock train and learned that the Nebraska Cavalry had gone out scouting and fallen into an ambush. The cavalry had been ordered to the Nebraska regiment, being near, had been called on for support, quickly followed by a call for the other battalions. The cavalry troops had run into a V-shaped position before they discovered the enemy. Three or four were killed and twelve wounded before they could get into a defensive attitude. Unable to retreat with their wounded, they called for the Nebraskaans. These rushed right into the ambush to get the cavalry out and were in turn subjected to a terrific fire. Lying down, they began to respond with the best they had, and were still there when Col. Stotsenberg arrived at 10 o'clock. He was requested to withdraw so the Philippines could be shelled out of their position, but replied that he could not retreat any more safely than charge. So he refused to fall back. He could not remain longer in the position held, as thirty-two men had already fallen from the effects of the heat, one of whom died because they could give him no attention, and the killed and wounded had already run up to about forty. He ordered a charge, and fell a few moments later, before his men reached the Filipino lines. He has been variously commended and criticized. None question his courage. Some charge him with being ambitious at the expense of his command. He always persisted in keeping his regiment, without rest, at the front, and always lost heavily in proportion when engaged.

POKER IN PARIS.

ODD METHODS OF PLAYING THE GREAT AMERICAN GAME.

Hands and Combinations of Hands That are Calculated to Drive a Seasoned American Poker Player to Hard Drink.

[Paris Letter in Philadelphia Inquirer:] A quartet of Americans who wanted to play poker stepped into the Grand Café, Paris, and asked for cards. The waiter brought a green velvet mat, a basketful of odd chips and a French pack of cards. One of the party only was familiar with these cards. He won the first four pots and then the conversation started up. "Why, damn it," said the man who thought he had a fall, "these queens have whiskers on them. The jacks look like queens, and the queens look like kings. Worst of all, these French cards have no indicators in the corners." "Now, what have I got here?" inquired the possessor of a straight. He spread the five cards out in his hand. By the time he had looked at the third card he had forgotten the first. All the face cards have names. The kings are Alexandre, David, Charles and Caesar. The queens are Rachel, Judith, Pallas and Argine. The jacks are Lancelot, Lahirre, Hogier and Hector. It almost took a fight to convince the man from Georgia that Lancelot, Argine and two others could not be a pair of tens. Pallas, Rachel and Lahirre will not beat aces up.

"Now, come here, garcon," we said. "Will you kindly ask the chamberlain to chase himself around the bureau de tabac and buy us a pack of cards marked in the corners?" "Yes, monsieur," said the garcon, twisting his neck to express regret and helplessness. "Impossible, messieurs! I am the gentleman would play the pockaire! Impossible! Those cards are prohibited in the Grand Café!"

He said a great deal more, but this was the gist of it. We paid our bill, bought a pack of American cards for a dollar at a toy shop and adjourned to the Café de la Paix. Here it is comfortable, bright and gay, with ladies everywhere, and everybody playing cards. We asked for jetons—chips—and got them; square chips, oblong chips, six-cornered chips for counting manille and piquet. Yet we were warned twice not to play poker.

The Grand Café is large. Everywhere are life chairs and tables. Five hundred people are smoking, drinking, chatting, reading and playing games, from dominoes to whist. A group of four men are playing a billiard game in the Rue Vivienne. Plot's is well known for its exhibition of crack billiards, but I fancy that the dealer puts up a French billiard table for the four tables of the Poker Club.

The two, three and four belnz took from the deck, a la pokaire Française, pairs, three, four, five, six and fulls are easier to get, while the flush only remains as hard to get as ever. According to these new conditions, a straight beats two pairs, three of a kind beats a straight, a full house beats three of a kind and a flush beats full house.

It is a jackpot game all through, a jackpot and table stakes, with permission to buy more chips only after losing the last one in front of you. Everyone has a sight for his money and everyone may be raised the amount he happens to have in sight. The dealer puts up a franc chip, the only ante. The players generally pass on a pair, though now and then you will see a sport open it on a couple of francs. Two pairs are only good to draw to; it would be folly—or bluffing—to bet on them.

In the American colony poker is so friendly-game-in-a-private-room variety, and its great peculiarity, the presence of ladies, is only in accordance with the law of the colony that the feminine shall rule in things. In one of the smartest boarding hotels in the American quarter the nightly poker game was captured not long ago by the fair ones, who proceeded to trim it up to date according to the prevailing mode of millinery. "Blazes," 2-4-6-8-10 straights, "riddles," "rangs," "doodles," "it-us" and jokers soon gave the game so weird a reputation that husbands and brothers began running around town nights to keep away from it. A reform was necessary, and the girls agreed to it. One feature, dearest of all to their adventurous hearts, they swore they would not give up. This was the joker. It must be played with the joker or no poker! It was on this account a grave misunderstanding came about one night.

As the packs they usually played with had no jokers in them, the ladies had agreed to let the dealer of spades—the little casino—stand for that card as the dealer of hearts, the dealer of clubs and the dealer of diamonds. One night, however, a girl discovered that a grave injustice was being done to the three other two-spots in the pack. With the joker you could have five queens or kings or anything, but you could only have four deuces. Evidently there ought to be another deuce. Thereupon they made this rule: If you have a deuce and the joker in your hand you may call any of the other cards a joker.

Naturally these new features were confusing to new men, who had to get along the best they could with them. The trouble came with a hard-headed Britisher, who the master of the poker itself with difficulty, failed altogether in remembering the extra virtue of the two-spot.

Listen to This Woman's Story

Sarah E. Bowen, of Peru, Ind., said:

"For eighteen years I suffered with weakness peculiar to my sex. I could neither sleep nor eat well, and was reduced to a mere skeleton. My skin was muddy, my eyes heavy, and I was dizzy much of the time. Doctors prescribed for me without avail; medicine seemed to do me no good. I was at the brink of despair when a friend told me what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People had accomplished in a case similar to mine. I bought a box and took them. I bought more and took them until I was well and strong. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People brought me new life and I recommend them to every suffering woman."—From the Republican, Peru, Ind.

THE DOCTOR'S BAD GUESS.

Mrs. Mary Jane Doolin Was Not Afflicted With a Tumor.

[San Francisco Call:] In November, 1891, Mrs. Mary Jane Doolin, wife of Michael Joseph Doolin, was riding in one of the old Omnibus Cable Company's horse cars, when the horses ran away and carried the vehicle over a bank. The passenger was injured, and, according to the complaint filed in an action for damages against the company two years later, she was a physical wreck and mentally impaired on account of the accident. When the case was on hearing in September, 1893, three physicians of standing in this city testified that they had examined the sufferer and found that she was afflicted with a huge tumor, which they believed was caused or aggravated by the accident. The plaintiff was awarded $20,000 by a sympathetic jury. The money was paid over, but a few months later the street car company went into court and asked for a new trial of the case on the ground of the damage being excessive and that newly-discovered evidence had been found which would have a material bearing upon the case. The newly-discovered evidence consisted of a baby that the woman had given birth to a few weeks after obtaining the damages. When the Judge of the lower court found that a baby and not a tumor cut an important figure in the case, he ordered the Doolins to refund $15,000, or a new trial would be granted. They refused to give up any of the cash, and a retrial of the entire matter was ordered, from which order they appealed. The Supreme Court thought that there was enough new features in the case to warrant the upholding of the order of the lower court.

It was in a large jackpot that the thing happened. A sprightly dame, Augusta is her first name, and she is a well-known opera singer, held the deuce of hearts, the deuce of diamonds, the deuce of clubs the deuce of spades (the joker) and the queen of hearts. Somebody opened it. The Britisher asked for one. Augusta asked for one. He raised Augusta, and Augusta came at him again. They drew cards. The others had dropped out. Augusta asked for one. The Britisher drew two. He held four tens, Augusta had drawn a nine. As each had evidently a big hand, there was some hesitation and joking before they bet. Then, to be tantalizing, Miss Augusta said: "See here, I'll show you two of my cards." Whereupon she laid down the nine of spades and the deuce of hearts. Now as the Englishman had four tens, he argued thus: "I've got her beat. She can't have any more than four tens or four deuces. I'll just give her a lesson." So they raised back and forth until it came to writing due to the fact that the Britisher had some money and the Englishman had none. "My poor child," he said, "I really cannot allow you to go on. I've got four tens." "But I've got five deuces!" she explained—and showed them. That is to say, she showed four deuces and the nine spot. The other ladies said she was right. They quoted their well-known rule—the rule he had not grasped—"If you have a deuce and the joker in your hand, you may call any of the other cards a joker."

"And I call that nine spot the joker," she said. They had to give her "reasons," as they say in French. The nine spot being the joker, it became a fifth deuce for her, and five deuces beat four tens—in the Avenue d'Atin. The Britisher took it better than might have been expected and the game went on. There came another large jackpot. The Englishman's face brightened noticeably. The jackpot being opened, it was raised and then he raised back. This time Augusta dropped out, but a demure young thing who ought to have been in her bed stayed there and raised him back before the draw until they came to writing paper. The young thing stood pat. And so did he. He only raised her twice, then called. "I begin to see the beauty of that two-spot rule of yours," he remarked pleasantly, as he laid down the two of spades (the joker) and the queen of diamonds, and the queen of diamonds.

"What's that?" they asked. "It's a straight flush," he answered. "I've the two, three, four and five of spades, and I call the queen of diamonds the joker—that is to say, I call it the six of spades—one, two, three, four, five, six."

"But," they cried, "you have no other two-spot in your hand!" "It was in vain they tried the rule to have. 'If you have a deuce and the joker in your hand you may call any of the other cards the joker.' The game ended sadly with a lot of torn-up due bills.

Our One Object.

[Louisville Post:] In the Philippines Aguinaldo is at the head of a small faction. He uses force reluctantly to secure the submission even of his own people. Freed from Aguinaldo, assured of peace and protection, we might leave to the decision of the men of the Philippines capable of deciding the questions the future of these islands. But today we stand pledged to draw the world for the peace of these islands, and our whole military operations are directed to one point and to one end—the overthrow of Aguinaldo.

M. AND M. ASSOCIATION.

Fiesta Colors Recommended—Letter to Police Commission.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association held last evening, resolutions were adopted recommending that the Fiesta colors—red, yellow and green—be adopted in conjunction with the national colors to decorate the places of business and residences during the N.E.A. convention.

In view of complaints made to the association that merchants on Spring street have been notified by the police to refrain from using, during certain hours of the day, screens or awnings, the following communication was forwarded to the Police Commission:

"To the Honorable Board of Police Commissioners, Los Angeles, Cal.—Gentlemen: Complaints have been made to this association that merchants on Spring street have been notified by a police officer to remove from in front of their show windows clothes used during certain hours of the day for the protection of their displays from the rays of the sun.

"Upon investigation it is found that under the provisions of ordinance 499, approved April 8, 1888, a technical violation of said ordinance may be ascertained, but it is doubtful if it is intended by the Council to place such a construction upon the ordinance.

"We submit that where such clothes do not project beyond the window, the public is in no way inconvenienced, nor can any injury be possible to the public. We do not believe that it is the intention of the Police Department to unnecessarily harass or annoy our merchants in the legitimate transaction of their business, but on the contrary, to protect them from the heavy tax-payers. If the said ordinance should be so construed by the Police Department that the merchants will be obliged to remove their clothes during certain hours of the day when the displays in their windows are exposed to the rays of the sun, it will be a frank and open violation of the ordinance.

SAGUA LA GRANDE.

THE ROCHESTER OF CUBA DESCRIBED BY FANNIE B. WARD.

A Trip Through the Sugar-producing Province of Santa Clara—A Sky-blue Town—Charity in a Cuban.

SAGUA LA GRANDE, May 20, 1890.—The best place I have found in which to study the conditions and prospects of Cuba, its prosperous past, depressed present and future possibilities, is this so-called sea-port, which lies a dozen miles or more from the sea. There is no other town quite like it on the island, its air of trimness and aristocratic aloofness rendering it a place not different from Havana, Matanzas, Santiago, Cienfuegos, as a New England town differs from a Colorado mining camp. Its streets are wider and better paved, its buildings as fresh and unpunctured as those of Yanketown. The conservative little city took no part in the recent war, and consequently suffered less than any other portion of Cuba; and although, like the rest of the country, it now feels somewhat the pressure of a hard winter, its population, including several millionaires, many well-to-do families, and none who are really suffering. Somebody has accurately described Sagua as "a sky-blue picture framed in green." The sky-blue effect is produced by the preponderance of that hue in the paint work of the houses, and upon the buildings, both public and private, while the natural surroundings are green as the greenest of tropic foliage. Even the central plaza, from which the orderly streets radiate like the spokes in a wheel, impresses the stranger as sky-blue, being divided into four squares, each of which is enclosed within an ornamental wooden fence of cerulean tint, outlined with blue-painted benches; while all the entrances to the squares are guarded by blue-painted gates. The sky-blue effect is not only due to the color of the paint, but also to the color of the buildings, which are painted in the same color. Each division of the plaza has a tower in its outer corner and a clock in its center. The sky-blue effect is not only due to the color of the paint, but also to the color of the buildings, which are painted in the same color. Each division of the plaza has a tower in its outer corner and a clock in its center.

Police Court Notes.

William Smith, a colored youth serving a ninety-day sentence in the City Jail for petty larceny, was held to answer to the Superior Court by Justice Austin yesterday, for petty larceny with a prior conviction.

On the morning of yesterday morning, called on Deputy District Attorney Chambers yesterday morning to ask for a complaint against a woman with whom she had been quarreling. Mr. Chambers refused to accommodate her with the desired document, so she returned to the scene of disturbance and renewed the quarrel. The result was that it was not long before herself was landed in the City Jail, for disturbing the peace.

David Henson, who is said to have been from Fullerton, was found in Macy street yesterday morning by Officer Baker in a condition that made him a fit subject for the Receiving Hospital. He had a gash about an inch long behind the right ear. He told him that he had been assaulted and robbed by a man named "Baker" and that he was in a bad way.

On the morning of yesterday morning, called on Deputy District Attorney Chambers yesterday morning to ask for a complaint against a woman with whom she had been quarreling. Mr. Chambers refused to accommodate her with the desired document, so she returned to the scene of disturbance and renewed the quarrel. The result was that it was not long before herself was landed in the City Jail, for disturbing the peace.

MAJOR-GENERAL E. S. OTIS.

There is an evident inclination on the part of some of the newspapers of California and other States to criticize Maj.-Gen. Otis because he has not called for more troops in the Philippines, or because he has not done this thing or that thing in accordance with the ideas of his self-constituted military critics, the grand strategists of the press. These attempted criticisms of a brave, honest and conscientious officer are without warrant. Maj.-Gen. Otis has discharged his duties in the Philippines, both as Military Governor and as commanding general of the troops in the field—the valorous Eighth Army Corps—with conspicuous ability and superb fidelity. He has faithfully obeyed orders in the administration of affairs in the islands, and the success of his military operations is attested by the fact that the forces under his command have been successful in every engagement fought since the Filipino outbreak.

Maj.-Gen. Otis may be relied upon to do the best that can be done with the troops under his command, at all times and under all circumstances. Whenever the authorities at Washington send him more troops, they will be employed. Meantime he is doing his duty as a soldier by making his campaign with the forces at hand. If these are insufficient—and this is possible—he will undoubtedly call for such additional troops as may be needed to do the work required of him. And it is needless to say that he will be given all the men that may be needed for the work in hand. If disaster should come to our arms in the Philippines, through lack of a sufficient number of men to carry the campaign to success, the blame would not fall upon Maj.-Gen. Otis alone; and it is not at all probable that the Washington authorities will take any chances in this matter. Whatever may be the number of men required to complete the work we have undertaken in the Philippines, they will be supplied.

In the mesh time, the unbacked criticisms of Maj.-Gen. Otis come with very bad grace from men or newspapers thousands of miles from the scene of hostilities. The commanding officer upon the ground knows the situation and its needs better than any other man. His capacity to deal with the exigencies of the case has been fully demonstrated, and he may be relied upon to do the right thing at the right time, in the future as he has done in the past. Ill-natured and ill-advised criticisms will neither detract from his splendid reputation nor turn him from the path of duty.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is having its roadbed sprinkled with oil and the officials of that line are enthusiastic at the success attained in laying the dust, as they have a right to be. In speaking of this new departure by the Pennsylvania line, the New York Journal says: "The idea of oiling the roadbed originated in California," which is quite true, and this is not the only good idea either that the East has borrowed from this peerless State of the Golden West.

A firm in San Francisco has been mulcted in the sum of $4000 for injury to a street sweeper, who was run down by a buggy driven by one of the firm's employes. This instance is cited as a warning to the reckless drivers who wobble about over the streets of Los Angeles.

THE ARID LANDS.

Referring to a recent editorial in THE TIMES regarding the irrigation of the arid lands, with special reference to the contention of Gov. Murphy of Arizona that these lands should be ceded to the States and Territories, the Phoenix Republican takes up the cudgels for Gov. Murphy and his plan, and incidentally flings a few clouds of Salt River soil at THE TIMES.

The Republican says that Gov. Murphy has done more for Arizona than any other man in the Territory; has made a national reputation while in Congress, and is recognized as one of the strongest men of the country. Granting that all this is true—and THE TIMES has never intimated anything to the contrary—it does not by any means follow, as a logical sequence, that the views of Gov. Murphy in regard to the disposition of the arid lands belonging to the government are wise or correct.

The Republican says there is no present hope of getting Congress to vote money for the building of reservoirs, because residents of the agricultural States east of the arid region are against further competition in the raising of crops, and that, therefore, we should all join in the movement for the cession of these lands to the States and Territories. The idea that because the right road is a difficult one to travel, we should take to the broad and easy road that leads to destruction is pusillanimous, and unworthy of Americans. For eastern farmers to oppose the reclamation of western lands is about as reasonable as it would be for California fruit-growers to object to the cultivation of oranges in Florida, or for the owners of alfalfa lands in this section to oppose the irrigation of more land in the fertile Salt River Valley. Besides, the argument of the Republican is not well founded. The irrigation of the arid lands of the United States is a big question, involving the expenditure of a large amount of money. It always takes time to educate public opinion on these important questions and to get Congress to work. For ten years or more THE TIMES has been hammering away about the construction of a deep-water harbor, at San Pedro, the introduction of the beet-sugar industry into Southern California, and the building of the Nicaragua Canal. Barges are now dumping rock for the breakwater at San Pedro, there are three large beet-sugar factories south of the Tehachapi, and the entire country is aroused to the great national importance of the waterway through the isthmus, work upon which is certain to commence within a very short time. Yet, when these crusades were commenced, a majority of the people regarded them with indifference, if not with distrust.

It is the same with the great question of irrigating the arid lands, and so making homes for millions of American citizens, at no ultimate cost to the government. Congress is slowly, but surely, coming around to a realization of the great importance of this question, thanks, mainly, to the indefatigable efforts of a few public-spirited citizens of the great West, backed by several of the most influential newspapers. At its last session Congress almost agreed to appropriate $300,000 to begin work upon a system of national irrigation for the arid West, and leaders of all parties agree that at least so much should be appropriated at the next session. The Congress of the United States, like other great bodies, moves slowly, but we may be sure that the good seed which has been sown will soon bear fruit.

In a communication published in THE TIMES of Friday, ex-Gov. McCord of Arizona advanced a number of powerful arguments in favor of Federal irrigation of the arid lands, and against State cession. Mr. McCord showed that, in Wyoming, where resides the author of the Carey act, for the cession of a million acres to each State, the reclaiming of public lands through that law has proved an ignominious failure. It has been in operation nearly five years, during which time less than 19,000 acres of the million acres ceded, or provided to be ceded to the State of Wyoming, have been reclaimed, most of this work having been done by small farmers, who have taken out a little ditch here and there. As Mr. McCord shows, if arid land were ceded to Arizona, it would be utterly valueless to the Territory, because the Territory could only get it reclaimed by giving it away, and it could only be given away when an aggregation of capital could be induced to undertake its reclamation, in which case the capitalists would own the lands and could fix such prices upon them as they desired. The government, under the operation of the homestead and desert-land laws, is already giving these lands away for their reclamation on a small scale. In conclusion, it should be remembered that every irrigation congress, including the recent congress at Wichita, has resolved in favor of national irrigation, and against cession of the lands to the States and Territories. This has been done, in spite of the strenuous efforts made by a small number of interested persons to swing the conventions into an opposite channel. Should the efforts of these men prevail, which is not probable, Arizona would be one of the greatest sufferers, among the States and Territories, from such a mistaken policy.

Mr. Watterson says he is "out of politics." This is an expression that we are familiar with in California, but those who make use of it invariably remain in with a pertinacity worthy a better cause. Perhaps Mr. Watterson is of different mold; we shall see.

Admiral Dewey has begun making a collection of coatees. By the time he reaches home he is likely to have more than he can use, but it is possible that he will be able to get some pointers from the fair young brides who receive duplicate wedding presents.

TO FRUIT-GROWERS AND PACKERS.

The representative of a firm of English fruit handlers who is visiting Fresno, in speaking of California fruits and the extension of our trade in those products abroad, makes comparisons of our methods of packing with those of the Spaniards which are well worthy the attention of the fruit-growers of this State. He says:

"The Spaniards put up dried fruits cheaper, and the product has only a short distance to be conveyed instead of across a continent and an ocean. Speaking entirely without prejudice and with the warmest feeling to the people of California, I am also bound to say that the Spaniards excel the California packers in the neatness and care bestowed on packing fruits and other products. I have been the manager, the buyer and also the agent of a number of concerns. I have seen California products in the largest houses in the East, and I do not see the fruit-railers especially—put up in as fine clusters or as skillfully as in the case with the product of Spain."

That those observations are correct can be confirmed at every store in America in which Spanish fruit products are sold. While we raise magnificent raisins and figs in California, when one compares their curing and packing with like fruits imported from abroad he finds how far short our packers come from meeting the work of their competitors, and how necessary it is, if we are to hold our share of the world's trade in these and other like orchard and vineyard products, to strive for greater excellence. This is a matter deserving the careful consideration of every fruit-grower and packer in the State, if they shall hope to hold their own in the struggle for the American and foreign markets. Nothing but the best is too good to put forward from our trees and vines for consumption by people who have money to pay for the best and will not be satisfied with the mediocre or inferior. California can and should lead the world with the fruits, but it cannot so lead unless it meets the best output from the hills and valleys of the lands afar. "What is worth doing at all is worth doing well," or to make this aphorism stronger, is worth doing better than anybody else does it.

ESTABLISH A MORGUE.
The unsexedly, not to say obscene, squabble among undertakers for possession of the body of a murdered woman, into which imbroglia the Coroner injects himself, or has been injected, directs attention to the urgent need of the city for a public morgue.

The business of burying dead persons is necessary and reputable, and because of its peculiarly intimate relations to the most sacred feelings of the people, it demands more than ordinary decorum and decency in its conduct. A mad rush of "dead wagons" to the house of death and a wrangle over a corpse, inspired by the hope of gain, are indecent exhibitions of ghoulism greed that are not to be tolerated, much less promoted and participated in by persons acting either officially or privately. When corpses become the currency with which political or private debts are paid, it is time for public opinion to assert its power and compel the respectful attention of both public servants and private persons.

This disgraceful state of affairs can be abolished by the simple expedient of establishing a public morgue, to which the bodies of all persons who may die under circumstances requiring investigation shall be removed. The establishment of a morgue has been discussed heretofore, and the proposition has been turned down by the interested efforts of certain favored undertakers. There should be no further postponement of the project. In the name of public decency, let the City Council provide at once a temporary resting place for the dead, where the clatter of contention over their poor bodies shall not disturb their last sleep.

A HORRIBLE SUSPICION.

A writer in THE PHOENIX, a London journal, suggests a new theory to account for the stranding of the Mohegan and the City of Paris on the Manacle rocks, off the coast of Cornwall, which theory involves the supposition of a new and awful danger for those who "go down to the sea in ships," and at the same time suggests a degree of despicable wickedness on the part of some "respectable" people, which is scarcely conceivable. The suggestion made by this man is, briefly, that the screams of the Lizard lighthouse were purposely shifted so as to mislead those vessels, and that this was done by one or more of the lighthouse employes, or by some outsider who had obtained access to the building, and who had been bribed by shippers of goods which had been largely overvalued, for the sake of the insurance. The correspondent of the Phoenix does not pretend that there is any evidence at present on which to base his theory, but insists that there is reason for making a searching investigation concerning the people who shipped goods on the two wrecked vessels, and the people who gained admittance to the lighthouse.

If there is the slightest foundation for this horrible suspicion, a strict investigation should certainly be made at once, but for the sake of humanity, let us hope that the suspicion is baseless.

Few strikes have been so opportune, climatically considered, as the one now on among the smelter men of Colorado. When the mercury in the glass is dialing with the 100 deg. mark, life in a smelter lacks considerable of being one long, sweet song, and a vacation during the heated term, even though one of the enforced variety, is not wholly to be despised. If the operators and operatives can manage to keep the heat confined to the weather, they may, between now and the advent of the cool spell, be able to come to terms, for which all good citizens will ever pray. The trouble between the smelter owners and their employes in Colorado is far-reaching, as it affects every industry in the State. If long continued the results must be tremendously disastrous, and it all appears to come, more's the pity, from tinkering with the laws by the Legislature, an evil from which California has suffered so much that we have unbounded sympathy for those in that kind of trouble. Let us hope that the smelter people will "get together" without smashing any heads or blowing up of any works. One Wardner a year is quite as much as the United States can be reasonably expected to stand.

"As rich as a Jew" is a common saying, and it is usually taken for granted that the Jews are the wealthiest class in this, as well as other countries. The error of such an idea is shown by a writer in Almanac's Magazine who makes the somewhat remarkable statement that, in a list of a hundred of the richest men of the United States, there is not to be found the name of a single Jew. The explanation offered by this writer, that the Jews are speculators and gamblers, and what they make is not always held securely; that they have not generally begun with capital secured by inheritance, and have not, until lately, invested in land; that they are oriental in their taste, and spend with much liberality to themselves and others; that, in short, they are money-makers, but not money-savers, is by no means satisfactory or conclusive, as a solution of this condition, which is in marked contrast to that prevailing in the chief countries of Europe, where the large fortunes are, to a great extent, monopolized by the Jews.

A dispatch to THE TIMES from New York quotes a report from the Tribune that P. D. Armour is at the head of a movement to attempt to control the fruit and vegetable trade of the Pacific Coast as well as of the Southern States, and that fruit-growers in North Carolina have formed an organization to fight Armour's plan. The project is that in which, besides Armour, the Porter Bros. Fruit Company and the Earl Fruit Company have combined to control the refrigerator-car service. Mr. Armour will not find it so easy a matter to carry out his ambitious scheme. The deciduous-fruit growers of Central and Northern California are up in arms, and have already taken steps to organize an independent car company.

Henry T. Oxnard is probably correct in his surmise as to the object of Mr. Havemeyer, who recently denounced the tariff as the "mother of all trusts." Mr. Oxnard believes that the sugar trust is working to purchase Cuban sugar plantations, after which it will endeavor either to have the tariff removed from sugar or to get Cuba annexed to the United States, thus doing away with the tariff, when the trust could produce refined sugar at 3 cents a pound, and knock out the American beet-sugar industry, which has already become so important, although it is yet in its infancy. Congress may be depended upon to "size up" this little scheme of the sugar trust—and to sit down on it.

The action of Mayor Eaton in refusing to accept "any old thing" in the way of fenders on the street cars is worthy of emphatic approval. If the railway companies once adopt a fender, no matter how ineffective it may be, they will never change it for a better device, therefore it is the part of wisdom to insist that we must have the very best the market affords. That there are fenders which fend has been indisputably proven, and that sort and that only should be accepted for use on the street cars in Los Angeles. As in other things when buying fenders, the best is the cheapest, no others need apply.

THE HIGH-SCHOOL QUESTION.

Los Angeles, June 21.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES:] The question of the propriety of increasing the High School facilities of Los Angeles is one which appears to different classes of people in different ways, and the side which is presented to parents of children whom it is hoped to send through the school does not appear to have found public expression fully.

There are in the High School something over 1 per cent. of the population of the city, which would indicate in a rough way that, probably from 8 to 10 per cent. of the people pass through that grade during their lives. It has been contended that this school is a burden on the poor man, while he does not share the benefits of the school, his children ending their education with the grammar grade. It seems to me that the High School is the opportunity of the poor child. When the time comes for the young man or woman to enter the world, he or she is made of the right material, they can support themselves while completing their education. But the average youth in this city, who is not a member of the High School, before his earning power is sufficiently developed to permit him to support himself while passing through the school, and if the school facilities are not provided, the burden rests on the parents not only to support the child, but to pay his tuition at private schools, or to enter the point of view of education obtainable by the son of the richest man. Without high school facilities, the child of the poor man has no educational opportunities canceled at the most critical period of his life.

It will be recalled that Herbert Spencer did not believe it right to tax one man to educate the child of another, and in Lecky's "Democracy and Liberty" the same thought is developed, with the additional feature that the author claims it to be an evil to place the professions, the sciences and the arts within the reach of the hewers of wood and drawers of water. These are doctrines which cannot find expression in defense of an aristocracy.

But in America we must take a different view to be consistent in our advocacy of republicanism. The creation of a rap between the grammar grades of the public school and the colleges is to enter the point of view which must separate more and more the people into a privileged class and a restricted class, leading to the condition which the advocates of a theocratic government cherish as an ideal. In our defense of democracy we are forced to that point where we must maintain the right of the general prevalence of knowledge, and as knowledge is a benefit not only to its possessor, but to all who come into relationship with him in any line of physical or mental activity, the diffusion of knowledge would appear to be a matter of public interest and equity taxation in support of it. It is hardly to the youth until they attain an age at which they can work out their own destiny.

The present educational methods are the best attainable, and whether the educated day laborer is a better man than the uneducated laborer are other questions. It is hardly to be claimed that perfection is reached, nor can it be maintained that all the sun's rays are crystallized into diamonds. There is a waste of sunlight and there is a waste of manhood, but the one child in ten thousand who learns to think for himself and labor put forth on the others who remain but blind followers of the one.

It may be a rather startling assertion, but it is true, nevertheless, that there is hardly a town of 2000 inhabitants in Southern California which has not got better high school facilities, or as buildings are concerned, than Los Angeles. In proportion to population, and throughout the smaller towns the idea prevails that the people who are settling in Southern California are of a highly educated class, and that good schools are an important feature of the attractiveness of this country, promoting growth and adding to the general prosperity. E. T. HOWE.

COMMANDER BOOTH-TUCKER.

Leader of Salvation Army Coming Problem and Scheme.

Commander Booth-Tucker, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, is coming to Los Angeles next week, and on Thursday evening he will speak at the First Congregational Church on "The Problem of the Poor and the Farm Colonies of the Salvation Army." The colonization scheme is intended to relieve the congested state of large cities and help the worthy who are out of work.

Three such colonies have been founded, and they are known as Fort Henry, Colo., Fort Herk, O., and Fort Rome, Cal. The latter is the first on the Coast, and is near Soledad. The undertaking is claimed to have resulted successfully in every case. Commander Booth-Tucker says that 3,000,000 poor people are rotting and festering in the tenements of the large cities of the country, and according to him their numbers are increasing so rapidly as to threaten to make the disease of pauperism as chronic and severe in the United States as in the older civilizations of the Old World. To change this condition of things, he would place the waste labor upon the waste land by means of waste capital and thereby convert the modern trinity of waste into a trinity of production. He thinks the $50,000,000 spent annually by the country in affording temporary relief should be devoted to the planting of the 3,000,000 so-called surplus population on 5,000,000 acres of fertile soil. If this scheme were carried out, he says, the result would be that labor would produce annually from the land $120,000,000 worth of food; the value of the land would increase from 50 to 100 per cent., thereby affording security for the capital which would be repaid with interest within ten years; the large army of tax-consumers would be converted into tax-producers, and an additional demand would be created for the product of city manufacturing.

FRIDAY MORNING CLUB.

Book Committee Furnished an Excellent Programme.

The Friday Morning Club programme yesterday, and, as usual, had a large audience.

Book Committee Comments, edited by Mrs. Allan C. Balch, were read by Mrs. Graham.

The following books were briefly commented on: "Men Women and Nations of Colonial Time," by Sydney George Fisher; "The Moorings of Malakoot," and "The Adventures of Lady Ursula," by Anthony Hope; "Canning of Perishable Literature," "Literature of Prison Contract Labor," "The Preservation of Jokes," and "Literary Shop," by James L. Ford, and "Italy and Our Italy," by Mrs. Grace Ellery Channing.

"The Progressive Woman, According to Robert Grant," was read by a bright paper by Miss Collier, in which the author's conception of the duties and sphere of the modern woman was reviewed, and for the merit part, disagreed with.

A paper on Charlotte Perkins Stetson's "Women in Revolt," by Mrs. Donald Macneil was a careful review and a vigorous refutation of the arguments in a book which is now arousing much comment.

In closing, Mrs. Lewis of the Denver Woman's Club, gave a short address.

This Bents Cut Rates.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] Marriage License Clerk Salmonson, in his years of experience in his present position, has had thousands of young and old appear before him, each applicant for the coveted credentials which would permit a member of the clergy making them one. His recollection of his first application from a minister for a couple to marry yesterday afternoon. The uniqueness of the proposition at first startled him, and he rapidly regained his self-control, he put aside attention and made a record of the request. This came from the Rev. Sarah E. Brown, pastor of the Spiritual Endeavor Church and president of the State organization of the Sunlight Center Band. Mrs. Brown asked Clerk Salmonson if it was not possible for him to send her a "nice-looking" young couple to marry. She said that if such a young couple would call at No. 1 South Hoyne avenue, all preparations would be made for the wedding, which would take place June 22, on the lake steamer City of Chicago, on which the excursion will be given by the followers of the Rev. Mrs. Brown. An elegant supper, bridal presents, supper for all the guests, and a purple dress for the bride are among the inducements Mr. Salmonson is authorized to offer. Three or four couples were standing near by at the time, and then Clerk Salmonson tendered the offer, but it was scorned by three of the couples after the first refused.

"The lady said she would like a 'nice-looking' young couple," said Clerk Salmonson, "and that she would leave it to my taste. I've been here sixteen years and I know all the good things I see it. I will send her a couple following my taste, in the matter. Of course, we shall attend to the request."

THE OLD SNARE DRUM.

It's yours, my boys, the yaller horn, ter tot it if you will;
But give me the old snare drum ter lead the column still;
Aye, bring the war-worn drumsticks back ter roll the reveille;
Go fetch the old, the same old life, the fire that used to be.

An' while the breezes fan aloft the old red, white and blue,
Make the footsteps young again with "Yankee Doodle Do!"
The same old drum that led the blue, the same that led the red,
That sorter cheered us while it soothed the mother's tears away.

Yer bugle may do jes' as well—Old Glory nod as neat—
Yet footstep seem ter miss somethin' a marchin' down the street.
The old feet sorter seem to lag, the head don't soar so high.
An' somer's in my bosom heaves a homesick kind o' sigh.

Yer might's well call a petticoat the old red, white and blue,
As too, yaller whistle fer ole "Yankee Doodle Do!"
Then give us back the ole-time drum our fathers used to beat.
An' hear that voice o' freedom call our might an' manhood neat.

An' when Ole Glory says "Come on," ter write yer name in scroll,
Jes' give us back the martial drum ter call the battle roll!
That's somethin' 'bout the ole "long roll" that sorter scares ter say:
"Columbia's got her eye on you—her honor's young today!"

An' when the final call of "taps," "lights out," fer me an' you,
No bugle blow can softly roll the soldier's last tattoo.
The soldier's last tattoo—the van, the soldier's bier,
The rifle song your only hymn, the muffled drum, the rear!

Oh, gratitude! vague butterfly! yer boots endure a day;
Ter "fold their tents like Arabs, an' as lightly steal away!"
He heard the drummer's long tattoo, the column's tramp an' tread,
Along the path that ends beside the trenches o' the dead!

Then take yer yaller horn, my boys, an' tot it if yer will,
But give ter me the ole snare drum ter lead the column still.

CHEAP RENT

Could often be obtained by small manufacturers and others using machinery in most advantageous locations, if some means of driving their shafting were available. Low rents in buildings with steam or gasoline engines.

IN DESIRABLE

Situations are scarce. The use of the electric motor obviates this difficulty. It is reliable, always ready to be started, and is in fact the only motor for what you actually use. Why don't you look up now?

LOCATIONS

Nearer the business center and more on the line of travel? No matter how desirable the articles you make or how good the work you do, people don't want it if you are not easily accessible to them. We supply the motor and the motive power on terms that will relegate gas engines and steam engines to the scrap heap. Telephone us at Main 308, and we will send a representative. A full line of motors constantly in stock.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

John P. Irish and Joaquin Miller are the Scylla and Charibdis of the Oakland voyager. As he industriously steers clear of the "Man with the Axe," who is running amuck in the public thoroughfares, he is in dread of coming on Irish or Miller. Either is contagious, and both at one time are sudden death.

Nine thousand tons of apricots at $30 per ton on entering the canneries, and 10 cents per pound on leaving them is the good fortune of the raisers and handlers of that one fruit in Southern California this year. Ventura will employ 400 persons in the cannery, and turn out 40,000 cans per day. The dry-year calamity dispensers will please take notice.

Suffering Santa Barbara has much to be thankful for in the laying on the shelf of the Bloody Pickaxe and the Yda Addis Storke cases in the same day. Now, sound the tom-tom, smite the hewgods, blast the haxxy, and in many other and devious ways knock holes in the atmosphere, and let the patriotic memories of the glorious Fourth banish such things from the barbaric mind.

The San Bernardino Times-Index tells of the first silo ever built in the valley, describing its features and praising its excellent points for making cattle and horse feed. If this lead is followed up the people of that section will pour blessings on the head of the editor, for anything that will conserve the interests of the feed problem must be valuable to California farmers. Silage will solve this problem in a measure.

Several inquirers of late for Lewis the Light are referred to the fact that a street preacher made so much noise in San Bernardino yesterday that a team of horses became frightened and ran away, with disastrous results. Commenting on the occurrence the local paper says: "The Times-Index bears no ill will toward the street preachers, but when they make so much noise that gentle farm horses are frightened into running away and people's lives are thereby endangered, the police should step in and make a few arrests."

An apparent case of carrying coals to Newcastle is the shipping of 500 tons of tobacco to Manila from San Diego. It is only apparent, however, for while Manila produces the finest tobacco on earth for cigars, our soldiers and sailors must have the manufactured article for chewing purposes, and it cannot be had at Manila. There is a possibility of repeating the Havana cigar deception, i. e., sending large quantities of American leaf to Havana for manufacture and selling the finished product, on its return, for pure Havana cigars.

The Ventura Independent says: "Things at the Oxnard factory are rushing both day and night, to get the factory in shape to grind beets. Ten or fifteen cars loaded with machinery arrive from the East daily. Quite a little time will be consumed in adjusting machinery, etc., so nearly all the early beets will be shipped to China in order to be ground. Three hundred men are now employed and are working night and day." This item is respectfully commended to the large and growing number of our friends and political enemies, the Democratic party, as good material for an "ishoo" for the next campaign. It is true it is loaded, and may go off at the wrong end.

Endeavor Delegates.

DEGREES CONFERRED.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF ST. VINCENT'S COLLEGE.

Bishop Montgomery Tells the Students We Should Not Boast of Our Civilization Until We Stop Killing Each Other in War.

The thirtieth annual commencement exercises of St. Vincent's College drew a large audience to the Los Angeles Theater last evening. The gathering was presided over by Rev. John A. Linn, president of the college, and Rt. Rev. Bishop Montgomery, and a number of the college professors occupied seats on the stage. A number of priests representing other church organizations were also present. The salutatory was given by Caesar Cetrucchio, who was followed by an oration on "The United States Navy" by William J. Hanlon. T. Elwood Stanton, the valedictorian, gave an oration on "Imperialism." The two orations showed a different trend of thought on the part of the young men, the first glorifying in the achievements of the navy, while the latter criticized the disposition of the people of this country to reach out after other territory.

Father Linn and Bishop Montgomery awarded diplomas and medals as follows: Master of Arts, Frederick J. Reardon, A.B., 1897; Bachelor of Arts, George A. le Doux and T. Elwood Stanton, B.S., 1897; Bachelor of Science, Edward J. Hanlon, B.S., 1897; Bachelor of Science, William A. Barnhill, William J. Hanlon, Philip J. Kerr, C. Urban Mandis, George C. Sabich and James P. Whelan; gold medal for the highest general average, William A. Barnhill; gold medal for English prize essay, William J. Hanlon; gold medal in the contest of Christian doctrine, George A. Beiser; Father Meyer gold medal in the public contest of oratory, Frederick L. Gilbert.

A scholarly address to the graduates was made by John G. Mott, LL.M. He was followed by Bishop Montgomery. The Bishop incidentally touched on some important present-day problems. He said, in referring to the

"I don't believe in war; I believe in peace. I think we are given to boast too much of our civilization, which we are to do until we can get along without killing each other. I don't propose to tell you whether I believe in expansion or not, but no matter what we may think of the question on its general merits, it is now the next thing to impossible for the United States to let go of the Philippines with honor."

During the evening the floral gifts were bountiful, and each of the participants was greeted with generous applause.

AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

Ormandy, the Counterfeiter, Has a Previous Record.

There is a sad story in connection with the arrest of J. H. Ormandy, near San Luis Obispo, on the charge of counterfeiting. He was at one time a resident of this city, where he lived with his wife, a son and a daughter. He was arrested for the same offense with which he is now charged, four years ago, and was convicted. The disgrace of the conviction so worked on his wife's mind that she became insane, and has been inmate of an asylum ever since. His son and daughter still reside in Los Angeles. Ormandy's term had just expired, and as soon as he gained his liberty, according to the charges, he returned to his old offense, and his partner in crime, John Thompson, alias Charles Raymond, made a confession, implicating Ormandy.

DR. THOMPSON'S CHURCH.

Congregation Selects Simpson Tabernacle for Assembly.

A meeting of the congregation of the Independent Church of Christ, over which Rev. J. S. Thompson is to minister, met last evening in Fitzgerald's Hall and listened to a report of a committee appointed to consider the question of a place for assembly, read by H. M. Conger. The committee had considered the possibilities of the Los Angeles Theater, Blanchard Music Hall and Simpson Tabernacle, and had received terms from the owners of each. It was recommended that the Tabernacle be adopted as the meeting place. The rental is $1000 per year. The recommendation of the committee was adopted by unanimous vote.

The letter of acceptance of Rev. Thompson was read. He is engaged for two years at $4000 a year, and will begin his pastorate on October 1.

"MANY NATIONS" CONCERT.

Entertaining and Successful Affair at the First M.E. Church.

The "Many Nations" concert given at the First M.E. Church last night under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society was very successful. There were solos, duets and quartettes in twelve different languages, besides instrumental selections on harp and bagpipe. Some of the singers and players appeared in the costumes of their native countries. An especially interesting feature was an Assyrian trio, in native language and costume, by Mr. and Mrs. Nicola Debs and Miss Salda Safady.

The church was filled almost to overflowing, and the audience showed its appreciation of the programme by generous applause.

About the Big Purchase of Ladies' Oxfords.

To begin with—this is the only store in Southern California that at all times keeps an exclusive resident shoe buyer in the Eastern market. Our buyer is right on the ground—every day in the year—constantly on the look-out for good shoes to be bought under price. Mark the word GOOD. The first thing he looks at is quality. If the shoes are good he's ready to talk price. Quality and price, that's all he's after. Quantities never scare him off. He knows that the outlet is here—knows you are waiting. The Shoe and Leather Reporter in a recent issue mentions the shipment of one hundred and fourteen cases of Oxfords to Jacoby Bros. 100 cases—thirty-six pairs to a case, or four thousand one hundred and four pairs in all. A prominent Eastern manufacturer in a "financial squeeze" had to realize on these. Our buyer named a price—a ridiculous price—and got the Oxfords. There are only two grades—Two dollar Oxfords and Two dollar and a half Oxfords. Tan and black kidskin, kid and patent leather tips, silk vesting and kid tops. All sizes in each style. The sale of these Oxfords starts this morning, $2.50 Oxfords for $1.39, and $2.00 Oxfords for $1.19.

MINING AND AGRICULTURE AT TERRITORIAL UNIVERSITY.

Pima Indian Boys Sent Home After a Year's Study in Tucson of Farming, Books, and Civilized Pursuits.

Decision Rendered Against Claimants of the Tres Alamos and Reyes Pacheco Land Grants as not Legal.

The Alleged Female Bandit Has Her Picture Taken, Enjoys Prison Life, and Shows Pride in Her Exploits.

TUCSON (Ariz., June 18.)—(Regular Correspondence.) The eighth annual register of the University of Arizona has just been issued. It is an elaborate production, telling of the advantages offered and describing the many courses open to students. The university, through national and Territorial endowment and support, is financially well provided for all. It has a faculty of twenty.

The university site is just outside Tucson. The main building, 200x100 in size, is of gray stone and red brick, and, in deference to the climate, is completely surrounded by a wide, two-story veranda. In this building are the recitation rooms, laboratories, assembly room and libraries. Adjoining the main building is the mining annex, 60x30 feet, filled with metallurgical machinery, including a completely equipped stamp mill, with all the accessories needed for the reduction of any save the basest of Arizona ores.

Most of the mining department is in a dormitory. A second dormitory will be constructed during the summer. Board and lodging are furnished for $15 per month. A number of the faculty are housed in cottages.

The main courses of the university are mining and agriculture. Of the graduates of the mining department, it is said not one is, at present, in employment that is bringing him less than $15 per month. The last term of the university ended with commencement exercises, held June 2. The annual address was by Chief Justice Street of Phoenix.

A few days ago, two passenger cars, attached to the regular west-bound freight train, were pulled out of Tucson, bound for Casa Grande. The cars were filled with young Indians sent to their homes on the Pima Indian reservation after a year at the Tucson Indian School. The school is conducted by the Presbyterian church. During the past year 180 Pima and Papago children have been under instruction. The object is to fit the young natives for contact with the whites in the vocations most readily learned. Farming is taught upon a farm forty-two acres in size in the Santa Cruz Valley, a short distance from Tucson. F. J. Herndon is superintendent, and he has about a dozen assistants.

Word has been received from the East that Richard P. Williams, candidate for West Point, accredited to Arizona, has been found lacking at West Point, in the qualifications set for admission. The news excited very little attention in Tucson, because young Williams, a son of the late Gen. Williams, who died in Havana, was a resident of this Territory. For several years the appointments charged to West Point from Arizona have been of residents of other States.

From Santa Fe come advices that decisions have been given against the claimants of the Tres Alamos and Reyes Pacheco land grants. The former grant was of ten square leagues on the San Pedro River. It was rejected because the grantee had not complied with the conditions of the grant made by Mexico, that 100 families should be settled upon the land. The second of the grants was for 600 acres on the Santa Cruz River near Tucson. It was alleged to have been made in 1802 by the commandante of the Presidio at Tucson. The claim was rejected because the qualifications set for authority whereby a garrison commandante could make such a gift.

Inasmuch as the Legislature of Arizona cut off all appropriations for the benefit of the militia, the school trustees of Tucson have given to Co. D of this city free use of one of the school buildings as an armory.

The King of Arizona, Milling and Mining Company has elected directors as follows: President, Enoch Randolph, superintendent of the Arizona division of the Southern Pacific Railroad; secretary, J. D. Payne; directors, H. C. Elcheberger, S. P. Womley, H. B. Gleason and Eugene S. Ves. Water has been secured and a 100-star mill is being erected on the ground. One hundred men are now employed, but more will soon be put to work.

The Southern Pacific Company has been making extensive improvements around nearly all of its station-houses throughout Arizona. Trees have been planted wherever water was to be found, and many new grass plots now delight the traveler.

Independence day will be elaborately celebrated in Tucson. Committees have been appointed.

One of the most notable of the pioneers of Arizona died in Tucson last week at the age of 80. This was Gen. J. B. Allen, thrice a member of the Arizona Legislature and Territorial Treasurer from 1867 to 1872. He was one of the most energetic of citizens in advancing the public interests of Tucson. The funeral was under the auspices of the Arizona Pioneers.

Col. Ben Morgan has returned from Oakland, Cal., where he has been for a number of years.

Lieut. Tom Rynning and Sergt. Dave Hughes both of Troop B of the Rough Riders, will attend the regimental reunion at Las Vegas.

FLORENCE.
FLORENCE (Ariz., June 18.)—(Regular Correspondence.) Pearl Hart, the alleged female bandit, will probably be shifted to Phoenix. Sheriff Truman has no proper accommodations for female prisoners, and has been advised, in answer to a query, that Maricopa county will take charge of the woman for him until the next term of court, for merely the usual cost of maintenance. Pearl seems rather proud of her exploit. Justice of the Peace Benson has put her and her accomplice, Joe Boot, under $1000 bail, which neither seems to care to secure. Boot, though apparently weak otherwise, has shown considerable manliness in the way in which he is seeking, in all the interviews held with him, to take to himself the entire blame for the stage robbery of Cane Springs Cañon. The pair have been repeatedly photographed, an operation the woman appears to enjoy.

The troubles of the Casa Grande Valley Canal Company may be adjusted within a few months. An offer has been made by the bondholders to turn the waterway over to the farmers for $40,000, and the proposition is being considered. The canal is badly filled up, and is not in a condition to irrigate a title of the land it covers.

Thursday morning, at the Catholic church, Rev. J. A. Chaucot united in matrimony Petronio Avenente and Miss Cruz Moreno, and Incarnacion Avenente and Miss Delinda Arvizu. The grooms are the sons of Juan Avenente, one of the most prominent Mexican citizens of the county.

Among late excursionists to Los Angeles are Miss C. F. Macher, Miss Nathalie Macha, Miss Maggie Brady and Miss Lola Robles.

GLOBE.
GLOBE (Ariz., June 19.)—(Regular Correspondence.) Reports from the northern part of Gila county are to the effect that the tension between the stock and sheep men has about reached its limit, and that hostilities may soon break out, approximating those of the famous Pleasant Valley war. The sheep men do not claim to have any right in the country save that of merely passing over it. In so doing, however, the grass in the best grazing districts is eaten to the ground, and cattle are starving in sections where ordinarily they are fat, even under similar climatic conditions.

The Old Dominion Copper Mining Company has voted to increase its capital stock from 150,000 shares to 200,000 shares, at a par value of $25 per share. The additional capital will be used to pay for the Continental group of mines, lately purchased by the corporation, to extend the railroad to the mine, and to provide a new smelting plant. Most of the new issue of stock will be taken by the company's stockholders.

A celebration participated in by almost all of the residents of Globe was that that marked the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of E. F. Kellner, at the residence of Barclay Claypool. The salary of the postmaster at Globe has been raised from $1300 to $1500 per annum, an additional allowance being also made for clerk hire.

GAVE HIMSELF UP.
One Man Pleads Guilty to Causing the Oil Deluge.
One man who pleads guilty to the charge of causing the Figueroa-street oil deluge has been found, or rather he has come out and confessed. The culprit is Herman Krippeke, who was one of the men employed by the Rex Oil Company to take down the old Suskind tank at the intersection of West Second and West First streets, near the old Second-street Park.

Hearing that a warrant was out for him, Krippeke yesterday morning surrendered himself to Justice Morgan and pleaded guilty to the charge of committing a misdemeanor by running oil into a storm drain. Krippeke said, in extenuation of his guilt, that he did not know that the oil was running into a sewer, but supposed that it was going into a sump hole.

Oil Inspector Montoux and others who gave testimony did not appear to think that the principal blame attached to Krippeke. The court took the evidence under advisement until 1 o'clock this afternoon, when Krippeke is to appear for sentence.

Warrants are out for several other persons responsible for the flood of oil. It is expected that all the guilty persons will be arrested, unless they take time by the forelock as did Krippeke, and make a voluntary surrender.

ETTA DEARBORN'S BODY.
Taken from the Potter's Field for Christian Burial.
The body of Etta Dearborn, the girl who hanged herself in the County Hospital, was exhumed yesterday from the Potter's Field, where it had been buried hastily in order to prevent the facts of the case from becoming known to the public, and is now lying at Bresce's.

Mrs. Van Vooth and others who knew the girl determined that she should have Christian burial, and they raised the money required to pay funeral expenses and made arrangements for the funeral, which will take place at 9 o'clock this morning at the Cathedral. The exhumation clears away the suspicion, caused by the efforts of the hospital superintendent and the coroner to suppress the facts, that the body had been disposed of at some dissecting room.

The dead girl's trunk has been found at a house where she lodged for a short time, and Mrs. Van Vooth wishes to have it turned over to the Associated Charities.

FOURTH OF JULY.
Committee Invites Gov. Roosevelt to Come to Los Angeles.
The Fourth of July Committee met last night and decided to hold an Independence Day meeting at Hazard's Pavilion at 10 a. m. on the Fourth. Judge J. Wade McDonald of San Diego will be the orator of the day. The committee sent a telegram to Gov. Roosevelt at Los Angeles inviting him to participate in the celebration of the Fourth in Los Angeles. Mayor Phelan of San Francisco also has been invited to participate in the celebration.

The contract for decoration was let to George Mathews.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK.

PAUL KRUGER.

The eyes of the civilized world are upon the South African Republic, and a great deal of responsibility rests upon Paul Kruger, the President of the country. He is a man of strong character and excellent judgment, and there is little doubt that he will resist any interference with his government, and protect the interests of the people there. From the first, Kruger is said to have a quick temper, but his features would seem to indicate that he is mild-mannered, long-suffering and very persistent. Many stories are told of his excellence as a man, and he appears to govern the Boers about as an affectionate father would govern his children. In the old days, before the South African gold excitement or the Kimberley diamond boom, the Boers were a quiet, peaceable, progressive and intelligent people. Their properties were improved, their institutions were of the best, and they seemed to dwell together in ideal brotherhood. The rapid influx of people soon gave them more outlanders than Boers. The outlanders have been principally English, who have felt that they had rights there; but the Boers have insisted on making the terms on which they were to be admitted to citizenship. If this is the real cause of the present difficulty, it will probably be easily adjusted. If, in reality, the English want to "gobble up" the wealthy Boer country, President Kruger and his people promise to give them plenty of trouble. Meanwhile the rest of the world awaits developments.

An interesting book called, "His Case Was One in a Hundred," was sent to me by a friend. It interested me so much I thought I would try Ripans Tablets. When I would go to bed I could not sleep for hours. In the morning after eating breakfast I would feel a pain in the stomach. At last I can say, without doubt, I have found something that has cured me. It was the wonderful Ripans Tablets. I had to take only three cartons to find this out. I am twenty-three years of age, and employed as shipping clerk, which requires lots of jumping around in a day. Any one of the boys in my department who will open my drawer will always find a carton of Ripans Tablets.

Postmaster Mathews has sent out a number of circulars issued by the Post-office Department, asking people to place small mail boxes in front of their houses for the receipt of mail. While they are not required by law to furnish such boxes, their general use would greatly facilitate the distribution of mail, as it would require less time of the carriers than for them to be obliged in each case to deliver letters in person after ringing a door bell.

OMAHA'S AMBITION.
The Greater America Exposition and Its New Features.

J. W. Cutright, Superintendent of the Department of Publicity, writes to The Times:
The Greater America Exposition will begin in Omaha July 1 and continue four months. It is not designed to be a repetition of the Trans-Mississippi, and its theme and plan are wholly new, and its management in entirely different hands, the only thing in common being the grounds, which will be greatly beautified, and the buildings, which will be made entirely new and appearance. The plans that the management contemplate are grander ones than those of the exposition of last year. Its features are all to be novel; the dominant theme will be exhibits of peoples from the lands acquired by this government through the war with Spain, their customs, habits and characteristics; also of the products, capabilities and resources of those lands. Just now while the nation is agitated by the question of expansion and the wisdom of its adoption as a national policy, these exhibits possess vital interest for every thoughtful American citizen.
Next in importance to this phase will be comprehensive exhibits in the line of American manufactures, wherein will be shown the volume and efficiency of American handicraft and ingenuity. To a greater extent than at any former exposition this will be done by means of live exhibits, showing almost every conceivable mechanical device in actual operation in turning out the finished product, the ornamentation of the grounds will be tropical; great quantities of flowers, plants and trees being brought from southern climes, for placing in the grounds and buildings; the illumination will far surpass anything ever attempted in exposition work in America. Those who visited the Trans-Mississippi Exposition must recall with pleasure the thousands new electric lights have been placed for the manifestations this year.
Yours very respectfully,
J. W. CUTRIGHT,
Superintendent Department Publicity.

Mass-meeting of Christians.
A mass meeting will be held at the First Methodist Church, No. 333 South Broadway, Tuesday, at 7:45 p.m., for the purpose, as stated in the circular issued by the Committee of Arrangements, of effecting a union of Christian forces in Los Angeles. The plan is to form such an organization as has been begun and is progressing in Chicago under the leadership of Miss Eva Marshall Shontz, the successor of Miss Frances E. Willard. In the call for the meeting, which is to embrace all denominations, it is stated that "there must be united endeavors to effect wise and practicable means to effect the practical application of the principles of Christ to all the affairs of human life, especially in business and politics, to promote the highest welfare, morality and happiness of all of the people." Charles L. Hubbard will preside, and addresses will be made by the Revs. Hugh K. Walker, A. C. Smith, W. W. Logan and E. A. Healy.

Tavera Was Armed.
George Tavera, a Mexican, was arrested in Jean Laner's saloon by Deputy Constable Kon, yesterday afternoon, for carrying a concealed weapon. Tavera and another Mexican, it is alleged, had their jealousy aroused by a woman whom the Mexicans admired. From the manner in which they acted, Deputy Kon concluded that they intended to do the man from San Pedro some harm. The officer accordingly stood both of the suspects up and searched them. In Tavera's pocket was found a caseknife, ground to a fine point, making an ugly and dangerous weapon. Tavera will explain why he carried the knife, in the Police Court today.
